Executive Summary

We request $10,250 to establish a Travel Fund for graduate students and postdocs to present their results at national and international conferences and workshops. These funds will enable more of our junior colleagues to receive the recognition they deserve for their hard work and will help them to improve their presentation skills and reputation as they seek their next job.

Supporting the careers of the graduate students and postdocs at Jefferson Lab is central to the mission of the lab. One important aspect of training graduate students and postdocs is to provide them with opportunities to present their results at national and international conferences and workshops. The travel fund would enable more junior scientists to accept invitations to present their work, which will help them to mature as scientists and to further their careers.
